The first player to completely fill in a prescribed pattern – for instance, filling in a full row in 90-ball bingo – is the winner. There may also be multiple winners: for instance, the first player to fill one row may win, as may the first player to fill two rows and the first player to fill their entire ticket. Bettors select the size of their wager by changing the value of two different variables: the cash value of each credit and the number of credits bet per spin. Credits are worth one of five available amounts: $0.25, $0.50, $1, $2.50, or $5. Since there is only one pay line, bettors choice of between one and three coins per line is also the total number of coins bet per spin. Those two factors mean the total bet range on this machine is between $0.25 and $15 each time the reels are set in motion. Riviera Riches has plenty of special features.
