If there is a big progressive slots game coming up, it could be well worth your while to go all in as the incentive is big. For example, say one coin will give you £1,000, two coins will give you £5,000 and three coins will yield £10,000, then it may be worth it to enter your all of your coin budget for that day. The game consists of 2 to 7 players at a time, and it has a slower pace than the quick thinking games of Craps or Blackjack, which is perfect for those who prefer this method and allows more time to think. The cards will consist of 53 different cards (the normal 52 plus one joker) that are then split into hands which will equal seven cards in each including the dealer's cards. Cards have the same values as in traditional poker. The highest rankings go from Ace, King, Queen, and Jack, followed by the number 10 through 2. The dice is then used to determine which player gets each hand, and therefore levels out the playing field regarding random cards.
