Another perk of Bitcoin is that it's usually cheap and fast to transact. If you've ever sent money from one country to another, you'll know that it can be incredibly expensive. Services like Western Union or interbank transfers often cost a huge percentage of the funds you're trying to send. They also take a long time - usually weeks. Bitcoin changes this. Rather than have your local bank communicate with at least one, but usually several, institutions to transfer funds, cryptocurrency transactions happen in minutes. The fees are paid to the participants that secure the network (known as miners), and these are substantially less than any other option currently in existence. The speed and cost of transactions make Bitcoin and other cryptos ideal for use on the internet, particularly for gambling. 7 reels guess the game may 2018

Both American and European roulette pay out the same odds on nearly all bets. However, since European roulette has one less space on the wheel, the house edge is significantly lower in this version of the game when compared to American roulette. This is why players are usually advised to play European roulette when given a choice between the two.
